

(P)

L

XV

8/c

L xv

34281/P

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2018 with funding from Wellcome Library

<https://archive.org/details/b30360171>

By His Majesty's Royal Letters Patent

Dr. LOWTHER'S

Nervous POWDERS and DROPS

A brief Exposition of the Virtue of Dr. LOWTHER'S
Nervous POWDERS and DROPS.

To the P U B L I C.

OF all the diseases incident to the human frame, none certainly are more dreadful in their appearances, or more dangerous in their consequences, than those that fall under the class of Nervous Disorders. To see human nature, as it were, effaced by those terrible convulsions and distortions of the features, as in an epilepsy, falling sickness, or paralytic strokes; nor does the disorder stop here, for a dismal train of other calamities too often ensue, such as extreme horrors, dejection, anxiety bordering on despair, an impairment of all the organs of sense, nay, sometimes a total abolition of the memory, and all the mental faculties, until death at length closes the said catastrophe, by a fatal and un-warned apoplexy. How much more are those disorders to be dreaded, and if possible avoided, than any other.—To expatiate separately on the many disorders under the appellation of Nervous, would require a work of years. It suffices here to say, that all disorders of this kind are very difficult of cure, as Nervous Medicines in common use, are found to be ineffectual, and most of them hurtful to weak and delicate nerves:—To prevent the many evils attending on Nervous and Hypochondriac Maledies, induced Dr. LOWTHER to give peculiar attention in discovering a specific remedy for those dreadful complaints. From long experience, application, and treatment of numberless patients in nervous Disorders, orders, and by many trials of a variety of medicines; adapted to correct the inherent malignity of the humours and strengthen the nerves, he can aver for truth. He can assure the Public, that no combination of any alteratives hitherto invented or exhibited, have produced such salutary effects in correcting the depravity of the blood, restoring its balsamic consistence, preserving the tone and functions of the nervous system, and invigorating the constitution, as the Nervous Powders

Many gentlemen of the faculty, eminent in the profession, on conviction of many persons of distinction afflicted with nervous disorders, being restored to perfect health by perseverance in the medicines, have generously thrown aside all prejudice, and recommended a trial of them, on failure of the common practice to many patients who have experienced their superior excellency in dismissal of every bad symptom; and as many thousands, some in the most deplorable state, have received effectual cure, by the use of Dr. LOWTHER's Nervous Medicines, there is reason to intreat their future recommendation of patients, as they are faithfully prepared from his manuscript recipes, and the inrollment of his Patent, now in the possession of his Relict and sole Administratrix, as the recovery of a sum of money due to her husband Dr. LOWTHER, has occasioned his Widow to settle in Dublin; and by the advice of her friends, she has revived Dr. LOWTHER's valuable Medicines. Many living attestations of the cures in this kingdom, could be produced the time they were sold, by Mr. Silcock, Skinner-Row, and others. Long experience and their extraordinary efficacy, with the numerous candid attestations of cure, in a great variety of Nervous Disorders, as every person will be convinced of, by perseverance in their use. They are a sovereign remedy in all kinds of convulsions, in the palsy and hysterics, are effectual in melancholy, lethargy, in bilious lious complaints and hypochondrical affections.—They infallibly remove every bad system, as lowness of spirits, head-ach, wandering confused thoughts and ideas, failure of memory, frightful dreams, dimness of sight, palpitation of heart, vapours, faintings, tremors, startings, suffocations, indigestion, loss of appetite, indolence, languor, weakness, wasting and impairment of the whole habit; in fine, they are the greatest purifier of the blood hitherto discovered, as always is experienced by nervous patients. They create an appetite, strengthen the organs of digestion, quicken the senses and memory, and in one months trial give evidence of their salutary effects, in amendments of symptoms, exciting cheerfulness of mind, with a flow of spirits, sprightliness of features and aspect, and enlivening the complexion.

Adhere strictly to the following directions, in taking the Nervous Powders :

The Patient should take, without intermission, two doses of Powders a day, viz.—in the morning, fasting, and about an hour before dinner, in a small glass or tea-cup of camomile, or any herb tea; it may also be taken in wine, or any thing agreeable to the palate, washing it down with half a glass more. When persons begin taking the Powders, they must not omit the regular use of them till the cure is compleated; for as an alterative calculated to correct the bad quality of the blood, its efficacy being suspended, the cure will be proportionable to the neglect, greatly protracted and their recovery retarded thereby. When the nervous system is violently affected, as in the epilepsy, the palsy or the indicating symptoms, prognosticate the disorder terminating in a paralytic stroke or apoplexy, it is necessary to take three doses of the Powders each day, the third dose to be taken about an hour before bed time, which will have more powerful effects in accelerating the cure.— Infants or Children, of one or five years of age, attacked with convulsions or fits, may take half a dose three times a day, in white-wine, whey, or herb tea; and all above that age may safely venture on the whole dose, as above directed, as the nature of the Powder is gentle, a mild restorative, without any sensible operations. They may be taken at all times safely, and without the least confinement, by both sexes; and Ladies with-child have taken them frequently during the time of pregnancy, to strengthen the constitution and prevent miscarriage. It is incumbent on all patients who wish a re-establishment of health, peace of mind, and a flow of spirits, not to decline the use of those Medicines, for want of perceptible relief, on taking them a few days, and may be assured, by the blessing of God, that one months continuance of them regularly, will produce such amendment of symptoms, as will convince them of their recovery and restoration to perfect health; and as health and spirits are the most valuable blessings in life, many that have used Dr. Lowther's Medicines, have enjoyed them to a very advanced period.

R E G I M E N to be observed :

Avoid salted and dried meats, pork, goose, salmon, much butter, rich sauces, acids, green tea, coffee, cyder, raw fruit, and all flatulent vegetables generative of wind, as carrots, moist roots, and sallads; may eat at meals, horse radish, mustard, celerly, asparagus, water-cresses, and all the warmer sallads; roasted meats and poultry are preferable to boiled, yielding more nutrition in quantity; fried and boiled meats should be avoided, being apt to turn rancid on weak stomachs. Eat light suppers of easy digestion; penada, water-gruel, with a glass of white-wine; new laid eggs, poached, a few oysters, roasted apples, or something else not oppressive, nor nor reluctant to the organs of digestion. Avoid an indolent sedentary life, use exercise freely, (not attended with fatigue) to promote circulation and the effect of the medicines.

Dr. LOWTHER's Specific DROPS, prepared by his Widow and Administratrix.

A most excellent cordial, and a pleasant easy remedy for all disorders arising from wind, indigestion, weakness of the stomach and bowels, loathing, want of appetite, pains, stitches, cramps, cholics and gripes — Being powerfully carminative, exhilarating the spirits, exciting appetite, and strengthening the organs of digestion. They are a proper assistant to the nervous Powders, when wind, flatulency, and a bad appetite prevail; taking one tea-spoon full in a glass of wine, after dinner, or at any time when oppressed with wind.

IF APPLIED OUTWARDLY, in recent head-achs, pour some drops on the palm of the hands, and apply to the forehead, or part most affected with pain. In the tooth-ach, take a tea-spoon full, held in the mouth on the side affected, or dip some lint in the drops which applied to the tooth will remove the pain. In contusions, bruises and sprains, numbness, cramps, and pains of the loins, it will be useful to rub the part affected with dry flannel, then before a fire rub a tea-spoonful of the drops, which being very discutient, will give immediate relief, and alleviate the pain. Dr. Lowther's Powders, Drops and Pills, have been recommended by the most eminent of the faculty, in nervous, bilious, and other disorders and complaints, with this observation, that they have known them effect many cures

Although

Although it may appear needless to mention particular Cures, when Medicines have gained such universal Reputation, as have those Powders and Drops, yet for the Satisfaction of the afflicted, some FEW CASES are here selected, out of many Thousands.

C A S E I.

To Dr. LOWTHER, in Hatton-Gardens.

S I R,

I HAVE occasionally, and for several months, made use of your Nervous Powders and Drops, but did not chuse to recommend them to the public, till I could do it with justice; being now fully convinced of their real efficacy, and firmly believing them to be the best medicines this day extant for the cure of nervous disorders, as I have experienced in a very dangerous and alarming case, after previously consulting several of the most eminent of the faculty, and trying every probable means for relief without success; but as trial is the best way to know the value of your inestimable powders and drops, I can with safety recommend them to my fellow creatures, and with the blessing of God, makes no doubt but they will receive the same benefit and a happy return of health.

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

April 12.

T. E. BROWNE,

Minister of Cudham and Knockholt, Kent.

C A S E II.

DR. Lowther's Powders and Drops have (to the admiration of his acquaintance) lately cured Mr. William Scarlet, perfumer and Tobacconist, Gray's Inn Passage, Red Lion Street, who was afflicted with lowness of spirits, violent tremblings, catchings, startings, wandering confused thoughts and ideas, dreadful apprehensions, loss of memory, giddiness, and pains in the head, dimness of sight, with specks before the eyes, indigestion, weakness and pain at the stomach, much oppressed with wind, palpitation, heaviness, numbness, &c. He is ready to satisfy every person of the truth hereof, who will give themselves the trouble to call at his house, as above.

June 16.

WILLIAM SCARLET.

C A S E III.

IT is with the utmost satisfaction I now acquaint you, that from a very low and dejected state, attended with most dangerous nervous symptoms, I am now restored to perfect health, through the sole use of your excellent Powders and Drops, after I had previously tried a great variety of medicines, Spa waters, baths, &c. without effect. You may be assured it will give me pleasure in satisfying any fellow sufferers with the particulars of my case, and am your humble servant,

August 17. WILLIAM CATER, Bookseller, opposite Red Lion-street, Holborn.

C A S E IV:

GRATITUDE to you, and justice to the virtues of your Nervous Powders, require me, after a year's experience, readily to acknowledge the success of them. I flatter myself you will in some measure partake of this pleasure with me, for a self-satisfaction must unavoidably follow so beneficial a discovery. I thank God, I have not once had a return since I took them, which is a year and a quarter, and have discontinued them for twelve months. From being greatly emaciated I have quite recovered my flesh and spirits, and have been able to entertain myself more this winter, than either I could or dared attempt to have done, for some time before; and if I continue as well as I am at present, it is a blessing I hardly expected. I am your very humble servant,

Rector of Rollesby, near Yarmouth.

WILL. ADAMS.

C A S E V.

I Think proper to acquaint you, that my daughter, Sarah Ponton, a girl of eight years of age, who had been deemed incurable, has been restored to perfect health by the sole use of your medicines, which, for the good of others, please to make public. The first of her illness began with a pain in her stomach and left side, which soon communicated to her limbs; great weakness, numbness, frequent and violent twitchings, beginning in her right arm, then over the whole body, till at length length she was so feeble as to be incapable of sitting up without two to support her. The convulsive spasms were continually in her head and face, causing a perpetual motion; and entirely depriving her of the use of her speech; her joints became rigid (I mean knotted) knees almost crooked, and fingers so stiff, that it was with difficulty we could open them; a rash used often to break out, and suddenly disappeared; her physicians at last said they could do no more. In this, her deplorable case, I was advised to try your Powders and Drops, which, to the astonishment of all the neighbourhood, had so speedy an effect, that in one week she could stand alone; the second could walk about the room; the third her speech returned; and in five weeks time was completely cured. I am myself much better, since I took your Powders and Drops. Please to send one guineas worth more by the Carrier.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

Leubenham, near Market-Har- ELIZ. PONTON.
borough, Leicestershire, Oct. 1.

C A S E VI.

FROM the great benefit received from the sole use of Dr. Lowther's Powders and Drops (after the advice of several eminent physicians failed of success) I think it a duty incumbent on me to make it public. My complaints these twelve years past were hysteric fits, a nervous fever, a great and almost continual pain in the head, stomach, and back, violent oppression of wind, weakness in the nerves, tremblings, flutters, flushings, rising in the throat, lowness of spirits, frequent horrors, groundless fears, confused thoughts, restlessness, weariness, very uneasy nights, frightful dreams, the cramp, gravel, want of appetite, reaching, loathing, costiveness, dullness, drowsiness, and a settled melancholy, dizziness, flying pains, &c. and that I am now freed from these complaints, will readily satisfy any person of the truth hereof,

And am the public's obedient servant,

At No. 8, Ironmonger row, near Old-street Church.

MARY WILDE.
CASE VII.

(9)
C A S E VII.

MR. Dutton Greenwood, at Ponder's End, Enfield, Middlesex, declared that his son (a child of seven years old) was violently afflicted for two months with convulsion fits, one of which, a very strong one, occasioned a total deprivation of speech for the space of six weeks; the fits entirely took away the use of his limbs, so as to render him incapable of turning himself in his bed. During this most terrible situation many medicines were applied, and no expence spared to relieve him, but all without effect, being given over as incurable; but hearing of the great efficacy of Dr. Lowther's Nervous Powders, application was made to the Doctor, who prescribed his Powders; and the child received a perfect cure in six weeks, having now the entire use of his limbs and speech, and no return of his fits.

The above declaration I do hereby aver to be true, and will farther satisfy any one who may chuse to enquire of me.

DUTTON GREENWOOD.

C A S E VIII.

I Think myself in duty bound to return you my thanks for the great cure you have performed on my son, who was violently afflicted with fits, notwithstanding I tried all means for his relief, without effect, till I happily applied to you, and by his taking your medicines he has obtained a complete cure. The truth of this I am ready to certify; and am, with the utmost gratitude, Sir, your most humble servant,

Godstone, in Surrey.

WILL. GREEN.

C A S E IX.

I Think it a duty I owe to the Public, to acquaint you of the great cure I received from the regular use of your Powders and Drops (which I took six weeks) after every other means for relief had failed. My case was as follows: For some weeks last past I have been afflicted with a nervous disorder, such as hysteric fits, lowness of spirits, great weakness, numbness, violent tremblings, dimness, dizziness, rising in the throat, cold shiverings, succeeded by flushing heats, frightful dreams,

B

frequent

frequent horrors, restless uneasy nights, sudden catchings, startings, loss of memory, pains in my head, back and stomach, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, want of appetite, costiveness, greatly oppressed with wind, dullness, drowsiness and heaviness: and as I am now, thank God, perfectly free from these complaints, you are at liberty to publish this extraordinary case, for the benefit of others; and am,

At South End, near Lewisham, in Kent.

Sir, your humble servant,
——— PEARNS.

C A S E X.

OUR daughter Elizabeth Thompson, having received a great and almost miraculous cure, by the use of your Nervous Powders, after every other method for her relief had proved ineffectual, we desire you will make it public. Her case, as high as we can describe, was as follows. viz. In the 12th year of her age she was taken with violent reachings, which held her six months; after which she was seized with an epilepsy, which reduced her to a very low state; the fits used to return 16 or 20 in a day. In the fit she would sometimes lay very still, and at others would struggle violently, at which time her stomach seemed greatly swelled; the violence of the fit would raise her a great distance off the bed (we having generally laid her on a bed or other soft place, to prevent her doing herself an injury, for it was with the greatest difficulty we could confine her at times); her fits greatly varied, as she would sometimes laugh, other times would cry, and many other symptoms that were termed hysterical; they generally used to deprive her totally of her speech, and almost every other faculty, for some time; when her fits were off, would give a rational answer, but hardly ever free from pain; great tremblings, sudden and involuntary catchings, confused thoughts and ideas, great dread and sinking of her spirits, with other symptoms pretty much the same as you describe in your book. Witness our Hands.

ROB. and MARY THOMPSON, in Bell-lane, Paddington.

CASE XI.

(II)
C A S E XI.

Dear Madam, Farrington, near Wells, Nov. 10.

I Have the pleasure to acquaint you that Dr Lowther's Nervous Powders and Drops, which you recommended, have succeeded beyond expectation. My mother, who was 60 years of age, and grievously afflicted with a violent pain in her head and eyes, dizziness, great pain and heat in her back, with dryness and constriction of body, frequent catching startings, frightful dreams, groundless fears, want of appetite, and settled melancholy, has been restored to perfect health through their use ; which unduced a neighbouring lady in near a similar case, to make trial of them, and with the same good success, notwithstanding she had before expended upwards of 100l. in advice and medicines without effect. The truth of which my mother and I will satisfy any person of; and if you please to do the same, you will oblige your most obedient servant, MARY ABRAMS To Mrs. C. Thomas, in Suffolk-street, Charing-Cross.

C A S E XII.

I Had been for several years in so low and relaxed a state, from outgrowing my strength, that I was almost reduced to a skeleton; had no appetite or digestion; had lived a long while on bread and water; was so weak that I lay all day upon a couch, without being able to walk, or move my legs, or stir them without help. If any one moved a chair, or made the least noise, it almost turned me distracted; my sleep was uneasy and disturbed to the greatest degree, and in short was afflicted with the whole train of nervous disorders. I had the advice of several eminent physicians, without any advantage. In this situation then, without consulting you, I had recourse to your Nervous Medicines, which restored me to perfect health; and from a most emaciated habit I am now become healthy and strong. The truth of this is fully known in the neighbourhood, to the surprise and wonder of all my acquaintance. You have my leave to make what use you think proper of this letter, and am, Sir, Your humble servant,

Whitby, Nov. 7.

JAMES PEASE.

CASE XIII.

C A S E XIII.

THE Rev. Dr. Haddon, rector, churchwardens, and overseers of Stepney parish, did then recommend to Doctor Lowther's care, Thomas Skinner, an industrious honest man, in reduced circumstances, from a train of grievous nervous complaints two years standing; such as continual dreads and fears, melancholy, violent tremblings, catchings, startings, weariness, lowness and sinking of spirits, want of appetite, greatly oppressed with wind, pain in the stomach, giddiness and pain in the head, want of rest, languid and dejected; during the course of his illness he had the advice of several, eminent in the faculty, and took various nervous medicines without effect; at length application was made to Dr. Lowther, who in consequence of the above recommendation, administered his Nervous Powders and Drops, with such success, as shortly to restore him to perfect health. Witness my Hand,

Dec. 17.

THOMAS SKINNER,

Carpenter, near the Globe, Mile-End.

C A S E XIV.

ROBERT JAMES GILL, recommended for cure to Doctor Lowther, by the curate and churchwardens of St. Bride's, London, afflicted from the 7th year of his age with violent epileptic fits, endured great dejection of spirits, horrors, tremors, startings, cold chills, numbness, dimness of sight, dizziness of the head, confused ideas, wandering thoughts, attended with a depraved appetite, and emaciated habit, is now restored to perfect health by the use of those Nervous Medicines. This extraordinary case and cure will be ascertained, on application to Mrs Gill, No. 7, Water-lane, Fleet-street.

April 10.

C A S E XV.

MISS MARY ROBERTS, afflicted with epileptic fits 12 months, was frequently subject to them twice a day; and the convulsions and attacks were so violent, that four persons could scarcely hold and manage her in the paroxysms; her faculties and habit were greatly impaired, with great lowness of spirits, tremors, startings, startings, dizziness, depraved appetite, and restless nights. By recommendation of many who were relieved, she was induced to a trial of these medicines, which have totally eradicated the fits, and restored her to good health. Witness to the above cure, Mr. Nicolls, mercer, Carnaby street, Carnaby-market.

July 5.

C A S E XVI.

Attestation of Cure to Doctor Lowther.

SARAH TAYLOR, afflicted with the most violent epileptic fits, endured such dreadful convulsions and distortions of features and limbs, as terrified the beholders with apprehensions of her expiring in the paroxysms. Dejection and despair ensued, with failure of memory, dizziness of the head, confused ideas, tremors, startings, palpitation of heart, loss of appetite, and emaciated habit, is now restored to perfect health, by use of the above medicines—This cure performed at Mr. Rooke's, silversmith, corner of Hatton-street, Holborn, will be authenticated on application to him.

October 10.

C A S E XVII.

MR. Samuel Howland having endured many years of misery from a complicated nervous disorder, and being now restored to perfect health by the use of these medicines, is induced to publish his case.—Was afflicted with lowness of spirits, giddiness and pain in his head, tremor in his hands, palpitation of heart, dimness of sight, great impediment of speech and hearing, disturbed thoughts, restless nights, horrors, startings, loss of memory, indigestion, weakness in his loins and limbs, and frequent convulsions invading, rendered him incapable of all the common functions of life—Being a long time perfectly recovered, is desirous to publish and attest his case and cure

SAMUEL HOWLAND.

Thame, Oxfordshire, April 27,

C A S E XVIII.

MRS. Marshall, wife of Mr. John Marshall, hofier, in Derby, certifies, that about six yers ago she was seized with epileptic fits, and the paroxysms being very violent violent, and frequently invading, caused great distortions of features and limbs, continual indigestion, horrors, loss of appetite, and great debility of body. After trial of a great variety of prescriptions, by the most eminent of the faculty in Derby and its vicinity, without effect, she was induced to state her case to Dr. Lowther, for assistance, and by regular perseverance in the above medicines, about five months, was restored to perfect health, nor has she had a return of the disorder for 18 months past. In justice, therefore, to so valuable a medicine, and for the benefit of those afflicted with similar complaints, she desires the case and cure to be published

Derby, Jan. 17.

ELIZ. MARSHALL.

C A S E XIX.

WITH utmost joy and pleasure can inform you of my restoration to perfect health, and the continuance of it for 12 months past, by the use of your Nervous Medicines, without interruption or occurrence of any bad symptoms since. As this is a blessing, Sir, I entirely despaired of, from failure of a variety of other medicines, I am fully convinced to have remained in a most uncomfortable state, incapable of enjoying any satisfaction in life, if I had not been, providentially, recommended to your care; and being thereby recovered to vigour and strength, think it an incumbent duty to publish the cure, that others, labouring under Nervous Disorders, may know where to apply for relief. Was afflicted with dizziness, stupor, and pains in the head, great dejection, lassitude, inattention, failure of memory, confusion of ideas, horrors, startings, indigestion, oppression from wind, and many other dismal symptoms; as will be attested on application to me.

JOHN ANDREWS.

Woolwich, 26th March.

MR. DAVIDS, Callico-printer, at Crayford, in Kent, cured of a complicated Nervous Disorder.

Mrs. Hudson, in Titchfield-street, cured of a complicated Nervous Disorder, Hectic, Heats, Weakness of Sight, &c.

Mr. Briscoe, in Pump-court, Temple, of Epileptic Fits
Miss

Miss Ellis, in Hackney, of a Nervous Disorder.

Mrs. Nash, in Hampstead, of a Nervous Disorder.

Mr. Sanderson, Peruke-maker, at Blackheath, of a Nervous Disorder.

Mrs. Turner, in East-Smithfield, of a Nervous Disorder

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Suffolk, of Little Swan-Alley, St. John's-street, of a complicated Hysterical Disorder.

A Child of Mrs. Style's, in St. Paul's Church-yard, of Convulsion Fits.

Master Deschamps, of a Paralytic Disorder.

A Son of Mr. Payne, Bookseller, of Convulsion Fits.

Master Heron, near St. Paul's, of a Paralytic Disorder

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, near College-street, King's Arms Stairs, of violent Hysterics, and almost the whole train of Nervous Disorders.

Mr. Thomas Blonchard, of Mile-end, formerly a Captain in the Merchant's Service, of epileptic Fits, and Palsy on one side.

Mr. James Liddon, opposite the Ship, in East-Smithfield, of almost the whole train of Nervous Disorders

Mr. Foster, Tide Officer, on Little Tower-Hill, of Epileptic Fits

Miss Undrell, in Flying-horse-Court, Maid-lane, of a Nervous Disorder

The Rev. Mr. Pollard, in Kent, of a Nervous Disorder, on a Scorbutic Habit

A Nephew of Mr. Whitherby, Stationer, in Birch-lane, of Convulsion Fits

A Child of Mr. Haskins, in the Old Bailey, of Convulsion Fits, and Paralytic Complaints

Mrs. Young, at the Sugar Loaf in Pear-street, near Old-street, of a complicated Nervous Disorder

Mrs. Hill, wife of Mr. Hill, Coachmaker, in Drury-lane, of a Complicated Disorder

Isaac Peacock, Shoemaker, in Bridgewater-Trents, near Goswell-Street, of Epileptic Fits, from his Birth, attested by the Minister and Churchwardens of the Parish

A Child of Mr. Mooley's, Painter, near Grosvenor-square, of Convulsion Fits

Mrs. Mary Parkhouse, at Mr. Nisbit's Toy-shop, the Corner

Corner of Crosby-square, in Bishopsgate-street, of Epileptic Fits.

Mrs. Goff, near Vauxhall Turnpike, Cow-keeper, and Gardener, of a Nervous Disorder.

Two of Mr. Blaney's Children, in Crispin-street, Spital Fields, of Convulsion Fits

Mrs. Abbot's son, in Poland-street, near Bond-street, of Convulsion Fits.

Mrs. Galaway, at Mr. Copeland's, in Fleet-street, of Hysterics.

N. B. Doctor Lowther's Nervous Pills, in Boxes of 2s. 6d. British.—These Pills possess the most efficacious Properties: A most effectual Remedy in all Billious Complaints, Disorders of the Stomach, and Obstructions in the Fair Sex, with all their disagreeable Symptoms:—They contain every softening and healing Virtue They are a Preserver of Health as well as Restorer; and no Family should ever be without those valuable Pills.  Directions at large given with them.

Sold by Mr. Callwell College Green & No. 41 of The Proprietor No. 21 Britain St.

